"These are strenuous times," said President Deckbach, as he called the business men to order in the dining room of Hotel Willamette, last night, "when we hold three booster meetings within eight days."

Senator Tom Kay opened the ball with some general remarks in favor of cutting up lands into smaller farms, establishing more industries, and got a big round of applause. At the close of his speech the mayor and city council entered and were cheered.

D. J. Fry was next called on and said there was great need of concerted action. He said the time had come to do something substantial towards funds to advertise the city properly.

John H. Albert was asked for some advice and counsel, and gave his opinion relating to the city's affairs. Salem of today was not Salem of last year or ten years ago. An unanimous petition had gone up for the most expensive pavement in the world on Commercial street. (Great applause.) A corporation had invested nearly three million in Salem's future by building an electric road from Portland. He endorsed the work of the board of trade. His remarks were heartily applauded.

Mayor Rodgers was next to compliment the best citizenship of Salem. He paid his respects to the mobback as a most underratable citizen. He must be driven out of the city and be kept out. What this meeting declared would be the law of this community. Why be any longer known as a dead town? We have the ginger. Why not cut it loose?

A. F. Hofer stated that a telegram had been received from B. S. Josslyn, president of the Portland General Electric company, pledging $50 a month. (Great applause.)

H. B. Thielson spoke of the publicity work carried on at Astoria, Eugene and Portland. Those towns showed spirit but the wires tonight ought to flash the news that Salem spirit surpassed them all. (Continuous cheering.)

Judge John H. Scott made a practical talk and was given a good round of applause.

August Huckestein was the next to stop the clock by hearty applause. He paid a high compliment to the president and secretary and executive board of the board of trade. The rest of the evening was spent in hearing short speeches and pledges of support. Nearly all present gave something.

GOVERNOR HUGHES PLATFORM

PUNISH OFFICERS

NOTHING CAN BE GAINED BY FINING CORPORATIONS, BUT IMPRISONMENT OF OFFICERS GUILTY OF OFFENSES WOULD SOON STOP CORPORATE VIOLATIONS OF THE LAWS.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, Feb. 22.—Governor Hughes, of New York, delivering a Washington birthday address before the Union League Club today, urged a settled government policy as the only means of restoring confidence in the commercial world. He said the federal and state laws should be as definite as it is possible to make them, and that they should be applied with becoming precision to practices sought to be reached.

"The enforcement of just laws has no terrors for those engaged in legitimate business," continued governor Hughes.

He declared that it has been found inadvisable to attempt to get a precise definition of fraud, but he added that it was possible and advisable to be more explicit.

"The way to get rid of abuses is to attack them directly," he said; "I believe that the most efficacious means is definition, proscription and adequate punishment of the offenders. Fines imposed upon corporations, particularly upon those with monopolistic powers, are just from no point of view. Punishment is most salutary when visited upon guilty individuals. Few men can be hired to go to jail, and if offenses which the public recognizes to be of a grave character, are punished by imprisonment, the law will most likely be obeyed."

Hughes declared that while the public insists on a pure administration, deserved contempt must be visited upon those who profit by indiscriminate detraction of men in public life. He said that the public service is far more wholesome than many people think.

"Special interests must keep their hands off of the city, state and federal governments," he declared.

"The common welfare must be the supreme law of the land. The lobbies that have been maintained in legislative halls have been the cause of mistrust of government and furnish the most serious pretext for assaults on our institutions. There is a slowing down of the wheels of industry, and enterprise waits impatiently amid the uncertainty of hesitation. It is absolutely essential that we should have a tonic of whole some confidence, inspired by the visions of the forces of right and just appreciation of our material and moral strength."

THE KETCHEL SULLIVAN GO

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—With fair weather promised, a bumper crowd is expected to wend its way to Coffroth's Ocean View this afternoon to witness the middleweight championship elimination contest between Stanley Ketchel and Mike (Twin) Sullivan. The fighters weighed in at 10:15 this morning, and neither budged the scales, which were set at the 154-pound mark.

The morning betting was 2 to 1 that Ketchel would win and even money that he would knock Sullivan out inside of 20 rounds. Both men appeared to be in excellent condition and expressed themselves as being confident of winning.

The scheduled distance is 25 rounds, and the fighters will toe the scratch at 2:15.

FISH FINDS OUT

HE IS A SUCKER.

New York, Feb. 22.—Stuyvesant Fish has abandoned the fight he has been making against E. H. Harriman for control of the Illinois Central railroad, according to an announcement made today.

The former president of the road, realizing that Judge Ball's recent decision spells defeat for him, has notified the stockholders that the proxies held by himself and assistants will be returned to them at their pleasure. Those who have been figuring on the amount of money spent by Fish in his fight say that he must have dropped at least $500,000, and that Harriman spent a similar sum.
